Altercation Between a Farmer and a Hunter.

Boiling with Ladignation About the room for a whole cart load. The Residents of Tuscavawas Township Bhooting of Orlando Stone Last Tuesday Alternoon.

If the farmers of Tuscarawas township were somewhat excited last week over the armoyance caused them by trespassing funters, their blood is now at the boiling point over the shooting of one of their number. While the matter has been kept quiet, for good reasons. The Independent has learned the following particulars: Loat Tuesday Mr. Orlando Stuter ulars: Last Tuesday Mr. Orlando Stotlet a prominent farmer, warned a hunter, who was close to his house, not to shoot on his premises, as his horses scared bad ly at the report of a gun. He had only gotten into the house when the man discharged his gun, scaring a team hitched mear by.

Mr. Stoner went out and ordered the man off, and on his refusing to go took him by the shoulders and pushed him.

The fellow backed away, deliberately raised his gun, and shot at Mr. Stoner, a number of shot striking him in the legs. The wounded man immediately caught hold of the gun and tried to wrench it away from his assausut, and in the strug gle which followed, the second barrel of the gun was discharged, but for: unately without injury to Mr. Stoner. The latter then went to the house to have his in-juries attended to, and the hunter hurrled-Mr. Stoner's assailant is Dan'l. Jones

The Great Installment House of Wm Stuart, 57 E .: Tuscarawas St.

Some men begin business in a small way and plod along for years, somtimes reaching a medium success and again simply living from hand to mouth and making both ends of the year meet by close scratching. While again there are men of large ideas, broad views and Napoleonic courage and pluck who scale the Alpine heights with seeming case and take Alpine heights with seeming case and take a prominent place in the public eye and amount the summit of business in a brief period of time. William Stuart of the great installment bouse, 57 East Tuscarawas street is a striking example of the latter class. In the spring of 1890 he came to Canton from Baltimore, Md., and located in his present spacious quarters in East fuscarawas street, opening out an extensive stock of furniture, carpets, stoves and household goods in general, and be-gan the sale of his wares on the installment plan, which was a comparatively new method of doing business in this city. Because of the fairness and convenience of the installment plan of doing a credit business, he soon got the attention of the peo-ple and walked into a splendid business, Mr. Stuart has exceptional opportunities to purchase his goods to the best advantage from the fact that he also has a large house in Baltim re in the same trade and handling the same goods His impense purchases enable bim to get all his goods at rock bottom prices, and hence the ordinary competition has no more effect upon him than water does apon a duck's back. A look through his establishment reveals the fact that it is ot only extensive but that his furniture onsists of all grades and at low, medium and high prices. He also keeps carpets, stoves, blankets, comforts, face curtains, window shades and in fact everything usually found in a first class home fur-mating establishment. Mr. Stuart is a pleasant and courteous gentleman, alive the the wants of the public and full of chergy and enterprise and we heartly congratulate him on his spiendid success Judge Taylor Gives Lee Moouin Canton

Won by George H. Spangler in Hats Caps and Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Paris has for years been looked to as the source of fashion for the wearing ap-parel of all the civilized nations, and yet ravelers tell us that the American people as a class dress better than the p-ople of any other country. Some people have an ideathet it is no task to select a stock of hate, capt and gents' furnishing goods, out the contrary is the exact truth of the matter. It requires a high order of ability o understand this business and conduct i occessfully. Mr. George H. Spangler, of o. 14 South Market street, has proven by the success he has won in this business that he understands the requirements of the trade and can supply the wants of the most fastidious customer. He began the business in this city in 1878 with a small stock of goods displayed on one side of the store room No. 10 South side Public Square. His trade gradually enlarged until in 1880 he purchased Mr. Albert's stock in Akron, where he successfully onducted the business for six years. He also opened a store ir Massillon which is still running and is in charge of Mr. George W. Doll, the first clerk he employed in his early business.

Mr. Spangler now has a splendid estabment at No. 14 South Market, where he displays a stock of hats passand result.

AT THE PEN. displays a stock of hats, caps and gents' furnishing goods unsurpassed by even some of the great houses in the metropolitan cities. From time to time he has nad to enlarge his rooms until at present he occupies the three floors at his present ocation and has negotiated for an his store without purchasing. His stock is complete, and because of his extensive purchases he makes in laying in his stock s is enabled to make the price an object o every customer. His success has been benomenal, but justly deserved.

STRAYER AND SHAFFER.

A Fine Stock of Hardware

The firm of Strayer & Shaffer illustrate The firm of Strayer & Shaffer illustrate the progress and success of the hardware trade in a very striking degree. Mr. Strayer is an old hardware man and formerly conducted the business on East Tuscarawas street. In 1888 he went out of the business. Mr. Shaffer has also had a long experience in the business, having been with C. C. Sny der for about twenty years. The firm thus well equipped by practical experi-ence, was formed hast february, at which time they purchased the stock of Myers & time they purchased the stock of Alyers & Ruperd, and removed it to their present excellent location, No. 33 North Market street. They have a $15,000 stock of hard-ware in their store, and probably there is no more complete or better selected stock eastern Ohio. Their stock consists of kinds of shelf hardware, the best make of tools, pocket and table cutlery. Spec-ial attention given to all kinds of builders hardware, paints, oils, win-dow glass, &c., &c. Both gentlemen understand the wants of the trade in this part of Ohio, and because of their long experience and full knowledge of the business they know what to buy and how to buy so that their customers car reap all the advantages which this reap all the advantages which this means, and it means a great deal. It is in reality the secret of success in this competitive age when every branch of business has to be done on close margin. Means Strayer & Shaffer are energetic and enterprising and will do their full share to extend the bulk of Canton's trade during the country year. during the coming year. We bespeak for them an extensive trade.

THE SHERMAN-FORAKER FIGHT

The Mud Slinging has Commenced With Great Vigor -- A Characteristic Scene, COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 14 .- The Foraker men have opened a very active campaign.
Five or six of the most active men of the gang are now here all the time watching the game. They claim Foraker's election over Sherman by from 3 to 10 in the catcus. They say Sherman is already beaten, unless he bribes legislators with money, and they charge that this is Shermau's plan. The feeling between the two factions is very acrimonious.

On Saturday some eight of ten Foraker men and three Sherman men were having it hot and heavy in front of the America: house, when, all at once, a disciple of For-aker pulled from his inside overcoat pocket what purported to be a record of all the bills demanded by the masses of the Republican party which Sherman had voted against in the United States senate, Starting to read from the list the Fora-kerite was interrupted by a Sherman shricker, who yelled at the top of his voice:

"Enough of that! If you fellows attack Sherman's record we'll show up Foraker's treachery, and we'll see who gets the best of it in the end." The air was thick with oaths for about a minute and became dense with sulphuric fumes, but cool heads prevented trouble, and the belligerents were separated for the time being.

ors to Visit Zaneaville and Cieveland.

Prosecutor C. C. Bow stated this morning that the greatest need of this county at present was a workhouse, and he thought that steps should at once be taken to further the project of erecting one. I has long been a matter of regret that there was not some place to soud persons who commit crimes which do not come under the class of penitentiary offenses. Bums come to Canton, commit a trivial offense for the purpose of getting into jail, con sidering that a luxury during the cold winter days and nights. Local offenders are also sent to jail when they look upon a jali sentence as something to be desired. Prosecutor Bow has taid the matter be-fore the commissioners to see if something cannot be done in the premises. A workhouse is a much needed institution and it is to be hoped that in the near future Stark county will have one within its borders.

Prosecutor Bow and the commissioners had a talk with reference to the matter to-day and the commissioners coincided with the views already expressed. The urgent necessity of an institution in which criminals may be put to work and earn their board at least, was conceded by all. It is the purpose of the commissioners to at once set about to concentrations. ceive a plan for the erection of a work use, and submit the matter to the voters of the county at the election to be held next fall. It is thought that prisoners will be sent from Columbiana, Carroll, Tusca-rawas and Mahoning counties, who are now sent to Cleveland. This matter has long been agitated in polles circles and the project will be hailed with delight by Mayor Blake and the municipal officers generally. By all means let us have a well-equipped work house and there will be a decrease in smaller degree crimes.

He stated that he was unable to find words to ex-press his loathing for the crime for which Moonshower was indicted, and said that he had had a very narrow escape. He re-gretted exceedingly that there was no work house to which Moonshower might be sent to work out his fine and costs. The jury had returned a verdict for as-sault and battery, and the court was of the opinion that the assault was an aggra vated one and merited the full penalty o

A NOVEL LOCK

Its Duplication Would Be of Interest a a Scientific Experiment. The curious lock illustrated in the cut from La Nature, is the invention of young Norwegian farmer, M. Isaacsen, and is of more interest from the novel scien tific principles involved in its construction than from its practical value. It consists of a bolt (B) which fastens the door, and is held in position by a weak spring (R). A pendulum (P) is suspended from a hook on the inside of the door, which, when set in motion, strikes an iron hammer (A causing it to fall upon the head of the boil and press it down so as to release it from the fastening of the door. A hole (C) is bored through the door opposite the bob of the pendulum, which is set in motion from the outside by blowing strongly through

LOCK INVOLVING NOVEL SCIENTIFIC PRIN CIPLES.

The security of this lock depends upon the fact that several puffs of air are neces sary to cause the pendulum to vibrate with a sufficient amplitude to reach the hammer, and each successive puff must be given at the exact moment when the pendulum passes the opening (C) on its journey toward the hammer; otherwise one might blow all day without unlocking the door The exact time of vibration of the pendalum must thus be known to the person unlocking the door, and this is easily determined by a second pendulum, which he carries, consisting of a string to one end of which is attached a weight, and provided at the other end with a loop by which it the outside of the door.

EXPERIMENT ON THE CONVEXITY OF Take a glass and fill it up to the brim being careful that the meniscus be con cave; near it place a pile of nickels. Then ask some amateur how many nickels can be put into the glass without the water overflowing. Every one who is not familiar with the experiment will answer that it will only be possible to put in one or two, whereas it is possible to put in a considerable number, even ten or twelve. As the pennies are carefully and slowly dropped in the surface of the liquid will be seen to become more and more convex, and one is surprised to what an extent this convexity

At the annual congress of German nat uralists held at Halle, Professor Von Pettenkofer read a paper on the self purifica-tion of rivers. The self purification of rivers had hitherto been attributed to sedimentary deposits, but Pettenkofer is convinced that it is the effect of oxygen, partly freely dissolved in or absorbed by the water, and partly produced by water plants. He considers that the great quantity of low vegetable organisms in water plays a great part in the purifying process. The vegetable growths in river beds, should, according to Pettenkofer, be protected, and refuse water from mills, chemical works, etc., which is destructive to vegetable growth, should not be allowed to flow into rivers unpurified.

Restoring the Color to Gold Dials. In order to restore the color to a gold or gilt dial The Jewelers' Circular advises dipping it for a few seconds in this mix ture: Half an ounce of cyanide of potace sium is dissolved in a quart of hot water and two ounces of strong ammonia, mixed with half an ounce of spirits of wine, are added to the solution. On removal from this bath, the dial is immediately immersed in warm water; then brush with soap, rinse and dry in hot boxwood dust. Or it may be simply immersed in dilute nitric acid, but in this case any painted figures will be entirely destroyed.

At first this solicitousness would cause courteous letters and telegrams in return; as the delay got longer the victim would get impatient and would finally be literally haunted by huge fishes or deer, "with the compliments of W. The Feeling Between Shark and Man. Man, when driven to dire straits by hunger, has often resorted to the hideous expedient of cannibalism, and it is not for him to affect indignation at the unscrupulousness of a starving shark. The immemorial cumity between man and the snake on land is even less bitter and deep seated than that which the seaman cherishes against the shark. In this case, however, it is one sided, everything pointing to the fact that, so far from having any hostile feeling for man, the shark has an excessive liking for him. It is as unjust to charge the shark with hostility toward man as it would be to accuse man of a savage and mosity against the ox or the sheep. He is a food to be eaten, that is all; and man, the almost universal devourer, is the last who is entitled to blame the shark on this ground.—London Standard.
